

Jenna McGuire

I grew up and still reside on the North Bruce Peninsula. I went to high-school at Bruce Peninsula District school. I have a degree in Wildlife Biology from the University of Guelph and a graduate certificate in Science Illustration from California State Monterey Bay.

I have spent over a decade working for Parks Canada in Tobermory in ecological research and nature interpretation. I am passionate about learning about, teaching, and preserving traditional skills and knowledge. I like to use my illustration and communication skills to record knowledge and teach others about nature and history.
